

ResearchAbstract

Hot Topic:

Gateway's Acquisition of eMachines Bodes Well

February 3, 2004

In a bid to shore up its sagging fortunes, personal computer maker Gateway announced that it would buy privately held eMachines in a $235 million deal. Aberdeen sees this as a shrewd move on Gateway's part. With this deal, Gateway expands its distribution channel, opening new channels in which its innovative products may be well received.

Peter Kastner

Click here to read this report